

Configuration Management Training (ISO 10007)

Table of Content

A. Introduction

- A.1. Non technical definitions
- A.2. Participants points of view / discussion
 - a. how to define the configuration
 - b. why is it important

B. Importance of Configuration Management

- B.1. What can go wrong with CM / what are the consequences : REX and Risks
- B.2. When and for what is CM needed

C. Activities of Configuration Management : what to do and how → ISO 10007

- C.1. General definitions
- C.2. Configuration Identification
 - a. Configuration Items
 - b. Configuration Information
 - c. Configuration baselines
- C.3. Change control
 - a. Initiation, identification and documentation
 - b. Evaluation
 - c. Disposition
 - d. Implementation and verification
- C.4. Configuration Status accounting
 - a. Documented Information
 - b. Reports
- C.5. Configuration Audit
- C.6. Configuration Management Planning